Stage is the thing at Auditorium

THEATER | Venue will be scaled down for 'Mistress Cycle'

The stage of the Auditorium Theatre, 50 E. Congress, will be turned into a black-box theater shared by actors and audience this summer as Highland Park's Apple Tree Theatre reprises its well-received production of "Mistress Cycle."

The musical, by Jenny Giering and

Beth Blatt, looks at the lives and loves of five women from various eras and cultures who served as mistresses. Kurt John will direct Charissa Armon, Angela Ingersoll and Karen Marie Richardson.

"The Mistress Cycle" runs July 22-Aug. 8. For tickets, call (800) 982-2787.
